If your dog gets lost, you will want to be sure he is safely returned to you. There are two methods of _____ to consider. The simplest one is a name tag on your dog's collar. This tag is instantly visible and indicates that the dog definitely belongs to someone. Sometimes, however, these tags are hard to read or they fall off. So, technology has developed a better method. Nowadays, some pet owners put a microchip in their pet's collar. This chip stores valuable contact information about the dog. There is growing evidence that combining activities such as walking or cycling with nature increases well-being. According to Jules Pretty, a researcher at the University of Essex, those who are generally inactive, stressed out, or with mental illness would probably benefit the most from this 'green exercise.' He said that in stressful workplaces employers should encourage staff to take a short walk at lunchtime in the nearest park for their mental health. Even a short period of green exercise can provide low-cost, drug-free therapy to help _____.

- ① develop recycling systems
- ② improve mental well-being
- ③ offer more job opportunities
- ④ keep our environment healthy
- ⑤ encourage people to go on a diet

20. 다음 글의 요지로 가장 적절한 것은?

It is frequently said that good thinkers are born, not made. Some people have more talent for thinking than others, and some learn more quickly. As a result, one person may develop thinking ability to a greater extent than another over the years. Nevertheless, this idea is essentially false because effective thinking is mostly a matter of habit. Research proves that the qualities of the mind required to think well can be mastered by anyone. It even proves that originality can be learned. Most importantly, it proves that you don't need a high IQ to be a good thinker.

- ① 훌륭한 사고력은 길러질 수 있다.
- ② 논리적 사고가 학습 능력을 좌우한다.
- ③ 품성과 지적 능력은 관련성이 낮다.

Ranjan and Sumer were friends. Ranjan was weak. The fun of running wild and playing games with boys of his age was not for him. Books became his good friends, and he was always first in his class. Sumer was tall and athletic. He was selected as the captain of the school's cricket team. One day, the two friends went for a walk. Ranjan said, "What is the use of all this knowledge, if I'm not healthy? I'd give away all my knowledge if only I could be half as strong as you." Sumer replied, "So you are not happy with your lot. I, too, had thought I would give up my sporting skill if only I could do as well as you in studies." Ranjan added, "Each of us wants the qualities the other has."

This is a metal strip used as a safety device to protect tall or isolated structures from lightning during thunderstorms. Most of the time, this is placed on top of the building. The pointed top on the metal stick attracts lightning and directs it down into the ground. This is connected to the earth or water below through a wire or cable so that the electrical charge may be spread out. Thus, it prevents houses from catching on fire after being struck by lightning. This is an important invention that helps us live safely on a stormy day.

Back pain is one of the most frequent health complaints in the U.S. This raises questions about the spine's design. "The problem is that the spinal column was originally designed to act as an arch. But when we became upright, the spine had to function as a weight-bearing column," explains Carol Ward, a professor at the University of Missouri. To support our head and balance our weight directly over the lower parts of the body, the spine evolved into a series of S curves—a deep forward curve in the lower back, and a backward curve in the upper back. This system of S curves is effective for maintaining our balance. But the lower region of the column suffers from the excessive pressure on its curved structure by our upright posture. This pressure seems to explain why back pain is such a common problem.

In a school classroom, children often earn tokens for certain target behaviors. These behaviors are classified as either on task or socially appropriate. Children also lose tokens for off-task and socially inappropriate behaviors. Children may cash in tokens they have earned for rewards like free time, game time, and sugarless candy. Some teachers use token economies for their classroom groups. An empty jar sits on the teacher's desk. Every time something good happens in the classroom, the teacher drops some marbles in the jar. The marble noise becomes a sound of encouragement to go with the visual image of the jar filling up. A full jar means all the students get free popcorn during the lunch period.

I think one of the real problems is that there has never been enough emphasis placed on forming good habits. ① The only time we ever hear the words good and habit in the same sentence is when a teacher comments on the need for good study habits. ② But, unfortunately, our bad habits get most of the attention, which only strengthens them. ③ Our personalities are actually a combination of our attitudes, habits, and appearances. ④ We need to change our focus to the positive side of habits and put more energy into building good ones. ⑤ Seeing the rewards of good habits can help us redirect our focus and form good habits.

A 13-year-old American boy has become the youngest person to reach the top of Mount Everest. Jordan Romero from California climbed with his father and three Sherpa guides. [33~34] 다음 글을 읽고, 물음에 답하시오.

(A) It was late October in Springtown. The days were warm, but at night, the temperatures dropped to as low as 3°C. The jacket Julio had worn to school that morning lay on the floor. It was late afternoon, and the sunlight streaming through the hallway windows was making him hot. Julio was hard at work taping posters onto the glass. He and his sister had spent the previous weekend painting them. In big letters, the posters asked students to "Vote for Julio!"

(B) She continued, "This ice water made the surface of the glass very cold. Any air coming close to the glass was cooled as well. The water molecules in the cooled air condensed onto the nearest surface, which was the glass itself. That's why your posters are ruined. Julio, do you understand what I am saying?" Julio smiled and said, "I get it."

(C) Ms. Wilson returned carrying a glass of ice water. About half an hour later, she showed the glass to the class. A wet ring had formed on the desk, and the sides of the glass were dripping with water. "The air around you contains water molecules. Whenever the temperature drops, water molecules condense onto surfaces," said Ms. Wilson.

(D) When Julio walked into school the next morning, he quickly made a shocking discovery. Someone had gotten his posters wet! The paper was wrinkled, and the letters were hard to read. Julio walked angrily to his classroom to inform Ms. Wilson. She asked Julio to calm down and then went out to investigate. "Good morning," Ms. Wilson said, as she reentered the room. "We're going to discuss molecules this morning, but first, let me get a drink of water."

W: Hey, look at those birds. They are flying in formation. They must be moving north because it's getting warmer.
M: Wow! They are fantastic. I wonder how they know when it's time to go north.
W: I read an article about bird migrations the other day. It said that birds have a biological clock which signals _____.
M: Really?
W: Yes. Some birds are sensitive to the changes in day length. In spring the days grow longer, and it is time to begin preparations for the migration north. The increasing day length also causes the birds to eat more and store fat. This helps the birds prepare for the spring migration.
M: Sounds interesting.

【서답형 5】 다음 글의 내용을 한 문장으로 요약할 때, 빈칸 (1)과 (2)에 알맞은 단어를 본문에서 찾아 쓰시오. [4점]

Remember, when we were very young, we would naturally try, learn, and try again. Sadly, our natural ability to do this is over in a flash. Fear of failure can stop success in an instant. While in school, we are often led to believe that we must succeed and that mistakes should be avoided. But to be successful, we need to learn how to fail and how to respond to failure. What we call failure is really a way of learning. Randy Nelson, a professor at Pixar University, shared this healthy view of failure with his students in his lecture: "You have to honor failure, because failure is just the negative space around success."

(1) F_____ can be part of a (2) l_____ process toward success.

【서답형 6】 다음 도표를 참조하여 글을 읽고, 빈칸 (1)과 (2)에 알맞은 말을 한 단어씩 쓰시오. [4점]

【7번】 다음을 듣고, 여자가 조언하는 내용으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

W: Someone or something often gets you upset or angry. But you don't lose your temper any more. Why not? The answer is that you get into the habit of taking the time to calm down, counting to ten or reciting a short poem to yourself, when you start to feel angry. Then your anger will go away. It always works for me, and gives me those important seconds I need to recover my self-control. Be sure that you, too, take those few seconds, especially when you feel angry.

【8번】 대화를 듣고, 남자가 제안하는 내용으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

M: Look, honey! The closet door doesn't close all the way.

W: That's because I have so much stuff in it. We need a bigger closet.

M: We don't have enough room. Do you have any clothes you don't wear anymore?

W: Yeah, maybe some. Why?

M: Well, what about giving them to a charity organization?

W: Oh, no! They're really special to me.

M: But if you haven't worn them for a long time, why keep them? There are charities that could use them.

W: Hmm.... I'll think about it.

【9번】 대화를 듣고, 여자가 그린 그림을 고르시오.

M: Hey, Amy. Did you do your math homework?

W: Yes, I did.

M: How did you illustrate three-fourths?

W: I drew four rectangles. I shaded three and left one unshaded. What about you?

M: I used one circle.

W: How can you illustrate three-fourths with one circle?

M: I divided the circle into four equal parts with two straight lines. I had three parts shaded and one unshaded.

W: Did you separate the four parts?

M: No. I kept them all together. Are your rectangles separated?

W: Yes. I put some space between them.

【10번】 대화를 듣고, 남자가 지불할 총 금액을 고르시오.

W : Good morning. May I help you?

M : Hi, how much is the ski lift fee?

W : For an adult, a one-day pass is 20 dollars and children can ride for half price.

M : OK. We plan to stay until Friday. Do you have a three-day pass?

W : Sure. The three-day pass is 50 dollars for an adult, and children get a fifty-percent discount.

M : Ah, I have a discount coupon. Can I use it?

W : I'm afraid not. You cannot use a discount coupon when you buy a three-day pass.

M : OK. I'd like the three-day passes. Two adults and one child, please.

【11번】 다음을 듣고, 무엇에 관한 설명인지 고르시오.

W : Now, let's look at another kind of painting. This kind of painting includes objects that do not move, like flowers, fruit, books, and furniture. People and animals are never represented in this kind of painting because after a while they would move. Once the artist knows what to paint, he or she has to decide how to arrange the objects, what shapes and colors should go next to one another, and where the light should fall.

【12번】 다음을 듣고, Jinhee가 남자에게 할 말로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

M: Jinhee is on the train to attend a seminar in Seoul. She's supposed to give a presentation on her recent research. Since she's been very busy, she hasn't had enough time to prepare for the presentation. She tries to review her presentation materials on the train, but she can't concentrate because of the sunlight coming through the window. Though she's in an aisle seat, the sunlight is very disturbing. In this situation, what would Jinhee most likely say to the man in the window seat?

【13번】 대화를 듣고, 다음 질문에 대한 응답으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

W: Hi, James. How do you feel today?

M: Oh, hi, Sujin. I feel much better. My stomachache is gone.

W: That's good to hear.

M: Is it common for people in Korea to stick your finger with a needle and make blood come out when you have a stomachache?

W: Yes. It's one of the popular folk remedies.

M: I guess it worked. Thanks, Sujin. [pause] By the way, where did you learn to do it?

W: Well, I learned it from my grandmother. She used a needle when I had an upset stomach.

M: Can you tell me how it works?

W: Well, I don't know exactly, but it might have something to do with your blood circulation.

M: That's interesting.

【14번】 다음을 듣고, John이 운전자에게 할 말로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

He looks for his cell phone to call his insurance company, but he discovers that he has left his cell phone at home. He needs to use somebody's cell phone, so he gets out of the car and waves his arms to stop a car. Soon, a car stops and the driver rolls down the window. After explaining his situation, what would John most likely ask the driver?

W: I'm doing well. Guess what? [pause] The new movie you've been waiting for is on at the Star Theater downtown.

M: Really? You mean the movie about the poet who died young?

W: Yes. Do you want to go with me? I've got two tickets.

M: Great! When is it?

W: Tomorrow at three.

M: Three o'clock? I can't. I have an appointment with the dentist.

W: _____

【서답형 1번】 대화를 듣고, 빈칸에 가장 적절한 단어를 쓰시오.

W: You look tired today, Stuart.

M: Well, for the past few weeks I've had to stay up late at night to observe the stars for a science project.

W: Oh, you haven't been getting enough sleep. Have you finished the project yet?

M: No. I have to observe the stars for three more nights.

W: That's too bad. Why don't you take a nap?

M: I've tried, but I can't fall asleep easily during the day.

W: Well, I think your body clock is off.

W: So, what are you interested in?

M: I'm interested in making food. I want to build my career in that field.

W: Oh, do you? Then, why don't you tell your mom what you want to do?

M: I've already told her, but she insists I be a lawyer.

W: That's too bad, but it's wonderful to imagine you wearing a white hat in a hotel restaurant.

M: Thanks, Linda. I hope I can persuade her.

W: Yeah, but I had to quit because of my studies.

M: If you want to apply for the position, you should go to the Black Box Theater. The interviews will begin at 3:30 on Friday, July 23.
